

WANT HELP CHOOSING WHICH NONPROFITS TO LEAVE 10 TO?

- Do you know you want to leave assets to charity, but you're not ready to select the nonprofit(s) to give to? Or maybe you just want to leave assets to generally help your community without choosing specific nonprofits? There are tools you can use to let others decide which nonprofits to give your grants to in the future. You can let your kids decide. Or let a foundation decide. If this is interesting to you, please see the back.
- If you would like to specify your nonprofit(s) now, the organizations listed below are all prepared to accept any type of gift you might leave them through your trust, will, or estate plan. Please feel free to contact them directly.

WANT HELP CHOOSING WHICH NONPROFITS TO LEAVE 10 TO?

If you would rather give to the community in general or to an area of interest, or would like to set up your own fund that can make donations into the future, community foundations offer many different options for leaving money to nonprofits through your estate plan.

If you want to use any of the options below, contact Bainbridge Community Foundation or Kitsap Community Foundation to get their advice and learn the details. Their contact information is listed on the reverse side. Or have your attorney, CPA, or financial advisor contact one of the community foundations.

Create Your Own Family Foundation – Maximum Flexibility

You don't want to decide anything now? You just want to leave assets to a charitable fund and give your kids or grandkids the joy of deciding what nonprofits to give your assets to, in your name, after you've left them? If your answers are "yes," you want to set up a family foundation using the structure of a "donor advised fund" at a community foundation.

Support the Entire Community but Leave the Decisionmaking to the Foundation

Maybe you just want to make a large gift or leave a legacy for the general support of the community. You don't want to pick and choose particular nonprofits. If that's the case, then an "unrestricted fund" is what you want. The community foundation will decide the best way to use the income from your unrestricted fund and give out grants in your name each year.

Help the Community Foundation Do Its Work

You can leave a bequest to a community foundation's own Operating Fund. This is an endowment fund that will exist forever to support the work of a community foundation. This is a simple way to leave a gift that will support the entire community forever – a true legacy.

You Already Know Exactly Which Nonprofits You Want to Support

Maybe you are interested in donating to a few specific nonprofits but you'd like the assets to be invested and granted out over time. If that's the case, then you are looking for a "designated fund." With this type of fund, you donate assets into your designated fund and the community foundation then distributes those funds to the specific nonprofits designated by you over the years.

Pick a Cause Or Sector and Let Us Find the Nonprofits That Fit Best

Let's say you want to donate a sum of money through your estate that will support a certain type of charitable activity or area of nonprofit work. For instance, maybe you want your legacy to provide assistance to handicapped people, counseling programs for veterans, support for the arts or education, donations only to nonprofits in North Kitsap, etc. In this case, you are looking for a "field-of-interest fund." With this fund, the community foundation will seek out and select the nonprofits which best serve the purpose specified by you.

Establish a Scholarship

A community foundation can manage a scholarship fund for you that is set up to meet the criteria that you want. If you want to set up a scholarship specifically for students to attend Olympic College, contact the Olympic College Foundation (contact info on the reverse).
